“Something in sneakers?”

"You have an answer for everything, haven't you?"

"Ladies and gentlemen, if after due consideration you find the balance of the evidence to be against my client, I still beg of you to look into your hearts and find compassion and mercy, because a verdict of guilty would make this the tenth straight case I've lost in a row."

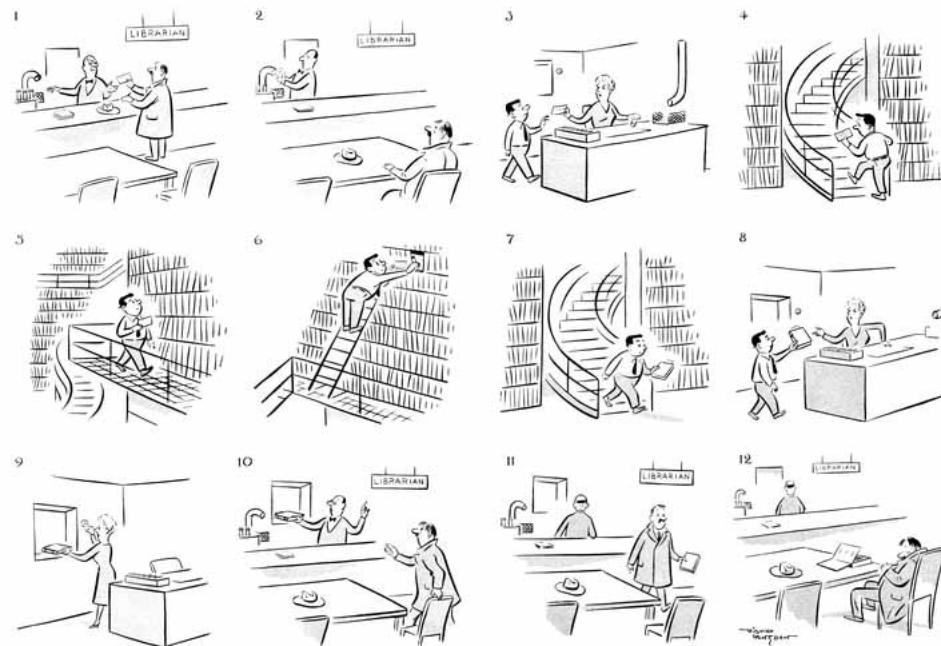

"Gauguin started at forty!"

"We're going to have you up and around before you know it."

"I'm afraid we'll have to discontinue your weekly talks on 'Society in an Age of Transition.' You're just not selling cat food."

"Oh dear! I wish they'd given me Madison Avenue."

"I'd know. That's who would know!"

"No."

"They must have a staggering laundry bill."

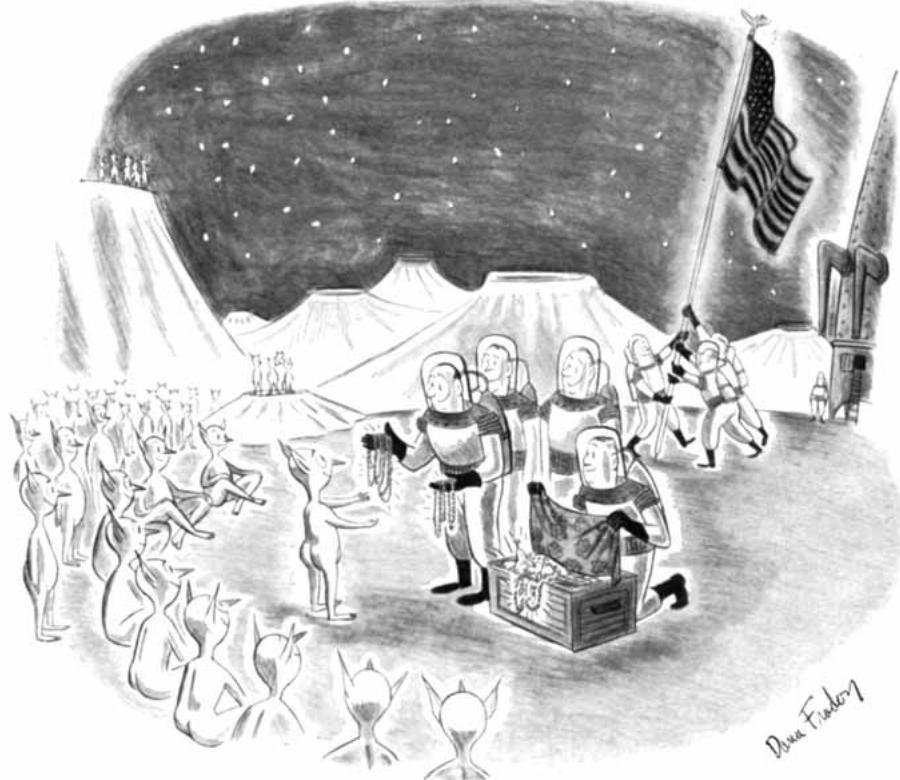

*"I'm afraid we'll have to close down your show, Pearson.
We had no idea your work was so controversial."*

*But, dear, what's a wife for? Was it ninety?
Ninety-five? A hundred and ten?*

"I'll tell you who'd make an honest mayor. I'd make an honest mayor—that's who'd make an honest mayor!"

"I always have the feeling that you're secretly laughing at me, Dr. Meers."

"Stop fidgeting!"

"But you've got to let her in! She's part of my costume."

"Now, do we all know what this object is?"

"Mrs. Emaline V. Allingham, 6 Beekman Place. Turn the rascals out."

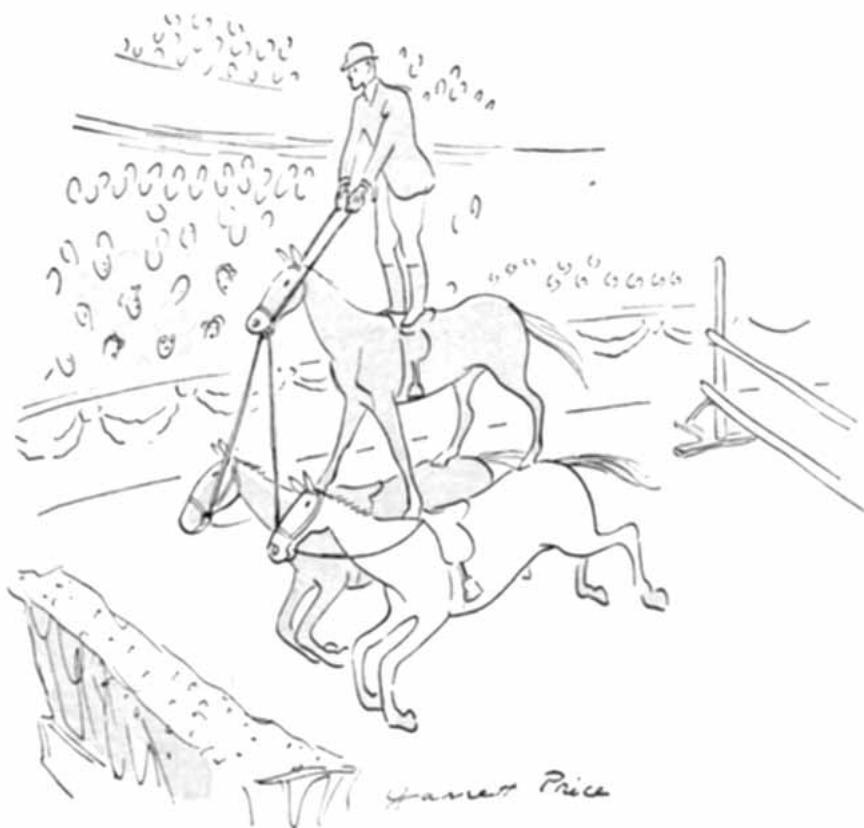

"Incidentally, there's another attractive feature—plenty of headroom."

"Don't get excited, boy. It's his blood."

"When I think of some of the men I might be married to now if it hadn't been for you and that damn ukulele!"

"She must be wearing her real jewels tonight."

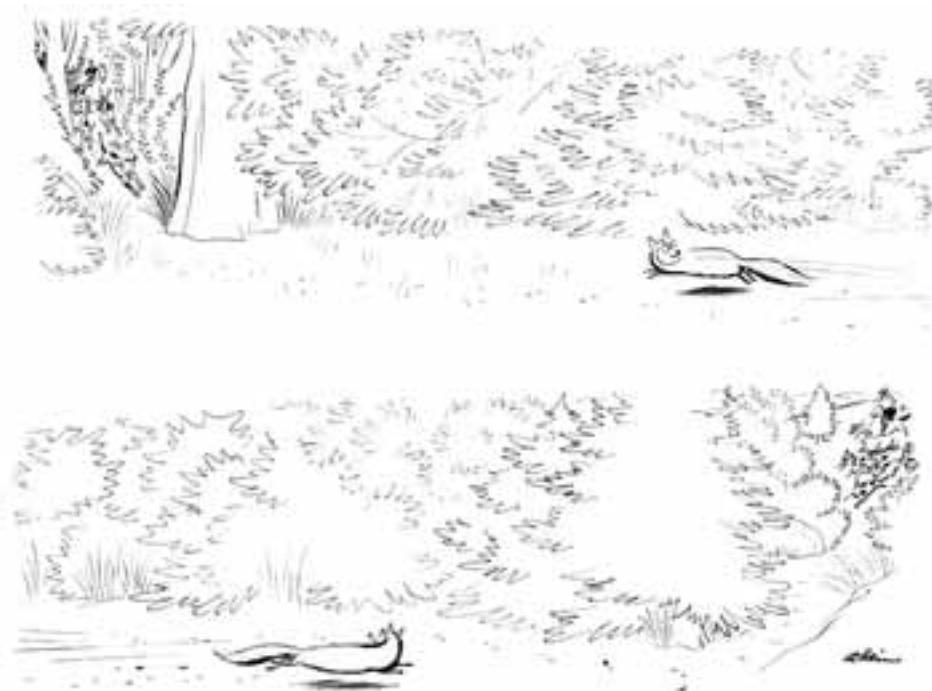

"Well, there she goes—right on the dot."

"Comrades, it has been proved beyond a doubt that Soviet cigarettes contain less nicotine and harmful irritants than those of any other nation."

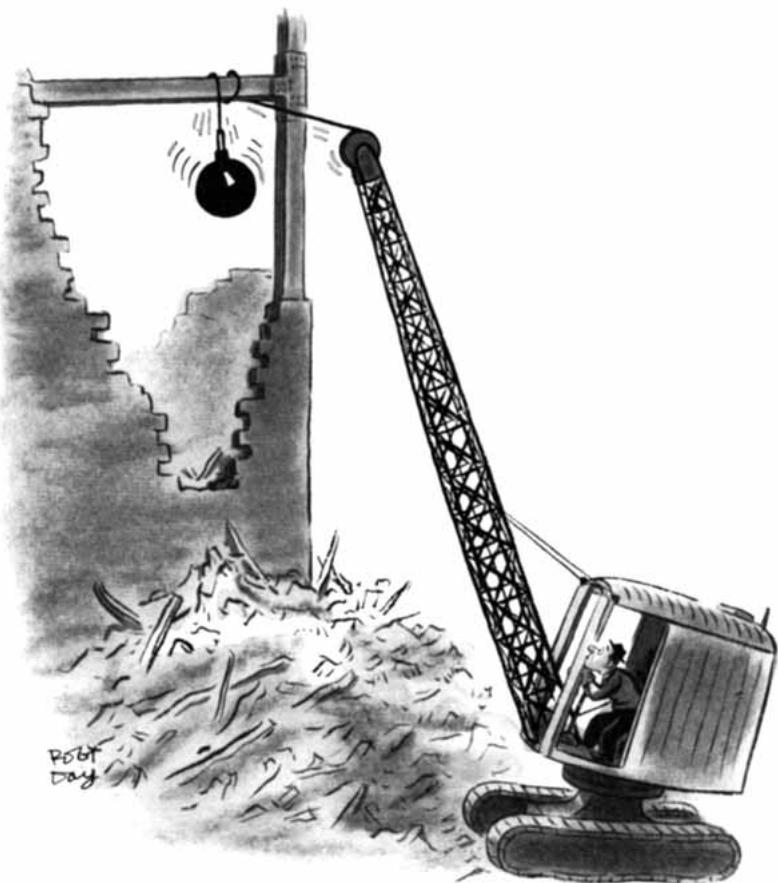

"Stop it! At once!"

"Men, if you really love and respect your wives, you can't go home without one of these Jiffy all-purpose can openers."

“One at a time! One at a time!”

"At least you could have shaved."

"I just wrote a check for ten trillion dollars."

"Which ten books would you have brought, if you'd known?"

"I've been praying for a raise for a long time now, Doctor, and I was wondering . . ."

"Know what I dread? Inventory."

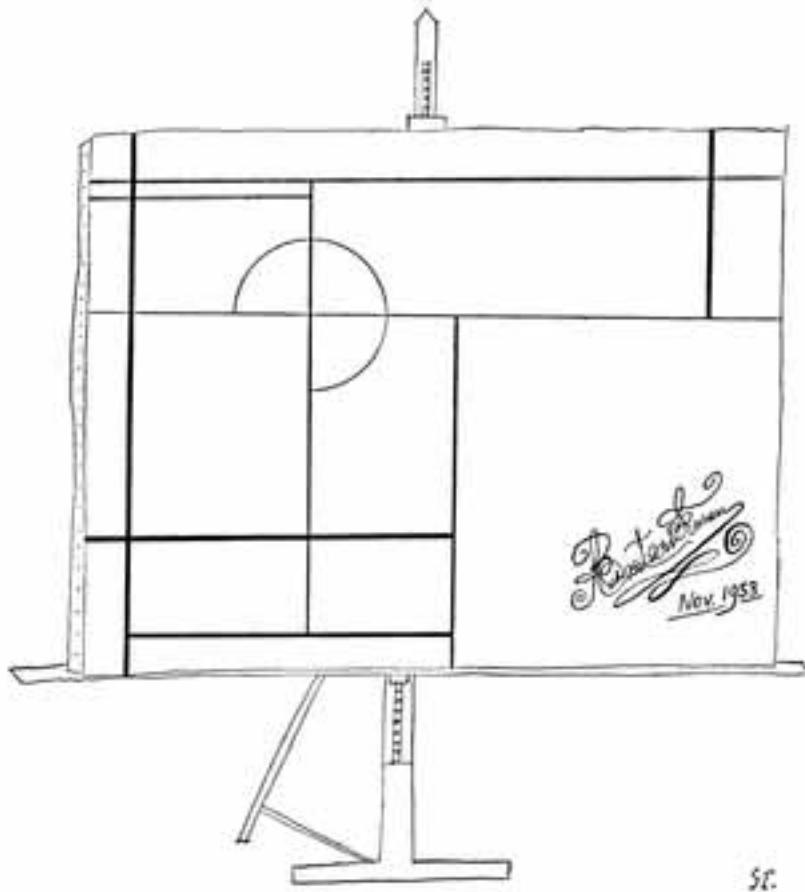

"I liked it better before they gave you an expense account."

"George! It was Dr. Carter that pulled me through!"

"What if someday they all just decided it didn't pay to advertise?"

"Try and look natural."

*"One morning they went out for a walk,
and that's the last I ever saw of them."*

WITHDRAWALS

"Well, that cleans him out."

"Miss Green, how would you like never having to worry about the price of meat for the rest of your life?"

"If you didn't enjoy our show, folks—if the talent seemed mediocre and the script a little weak—please remember that the savings represented in our low TV budget are passed directly on to you in the form of lower prices."

"It's very interesting, but I'm afraid we only publish science fiction."

"He calls it a career—hunting for his name on lists of unclaimed bank deposits."

"You're all stupid!"

“Somehow I never imagined it this way.”

"I'm sorry the bank can't approve your request for a loan, Miss Dennis, but I'd be delighted to tide you over with a little something personally."

"It's a lovely day out, dear. Care to take a peek before 'Homemakers' Jamboree'?"

"You and your last place in the world they'll ever think of looking!"

"Vende usted Tums?"

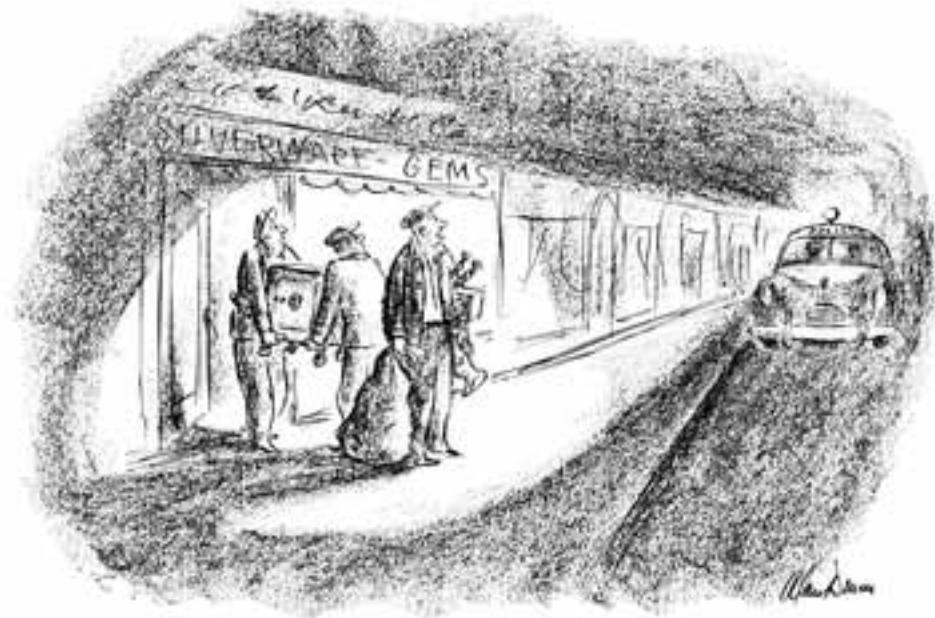

"Look, Mariano, you're an accompanist."

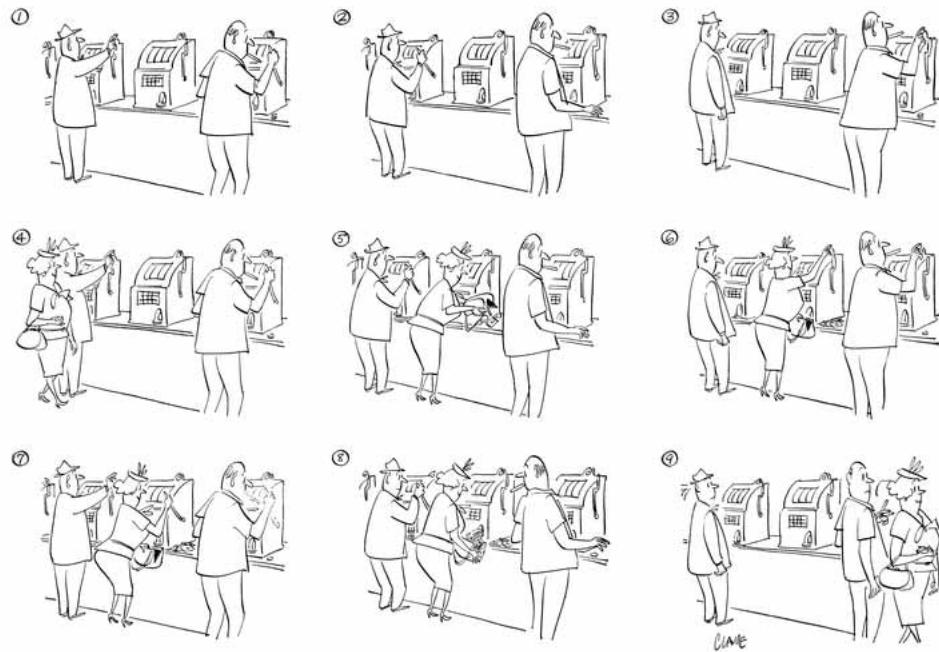

Bernie Wiseman (11/21/1953)

"Well, we'll just have to brazen it out."

"Well, of all the nerve!"

*"But, Doctor, don't you remember, the last time
I was in here you told me to take things easy?"*

"To me, they're not just something to buy and sell. They're personalities."

"Every once in a while Owen likes to get off by himself and think things out."

"When you asked me to work late tonight, Mr. Simpkins, I thought there'd be more than just one little old letter."

"I'd just like to see anyone try to give me a partridge in a pear tree for Christmas."

"Just what makes you think I'm neurotic?"

"It's a new—begging your pardon—miracle drug."

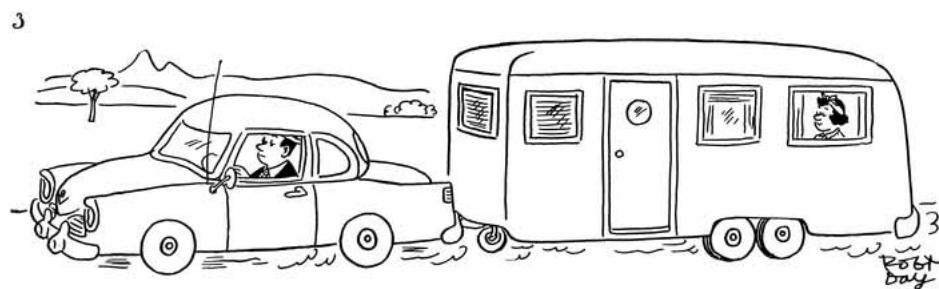

"With all due respect to my opponent, let me remind you again of the dangers of changing carpets in midair."

"Pop, can I have the tractor tonight?"

"By God, I think you're right!"

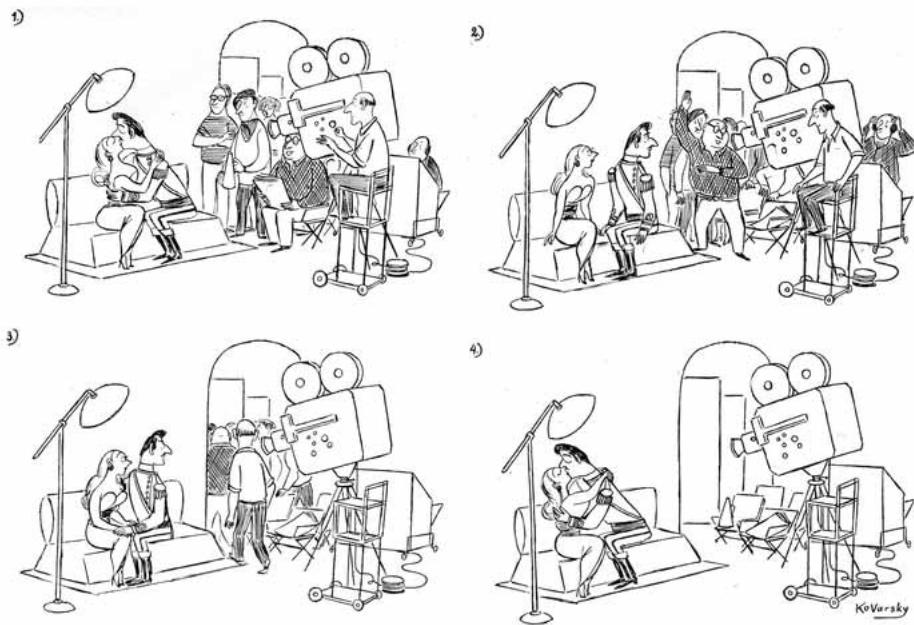

"Look, Joe, I'm calling that wind last night a terrific gale, and I don't want you crossing me up in your book."

"Do you think I like to suffer?"

"Well, so long, fellows. I'm off to gay, carefree, exciting Stuyvesant Town."

"No, dear, it's Santa Claus there is none of. There have always been reindeer."

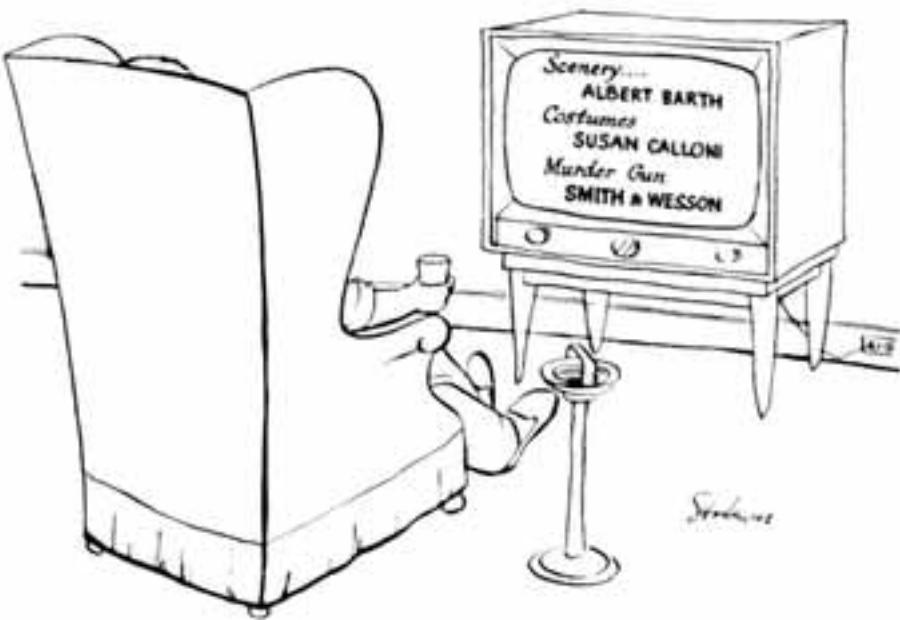

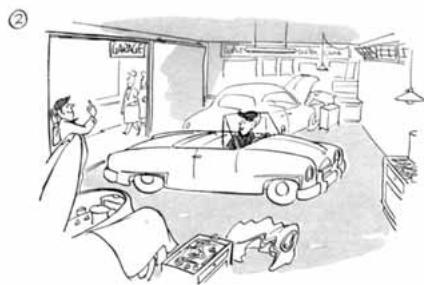

"Mother! Daddy's putting two in his."

"That'll be sixty-eight ninety. Madame has on two hats."

"Of course, we wouldn't want him to grow up and live in a garret, or anything like that."

"You can relax. There's a warm front moving up from Texas."

"Splendid, Fuller!"

"HELP!"

Gee, Tom, aren't we lucky my folks bought a lemon?

"You're a very stupid dog!"

"Sanders speaking. Stop all production on XP15, recall all shipments, wire every doctor in the country, and hurry!"

*"I seem to see a few doubtful expressions out there.
Well, permit me to elaborate . . ."*

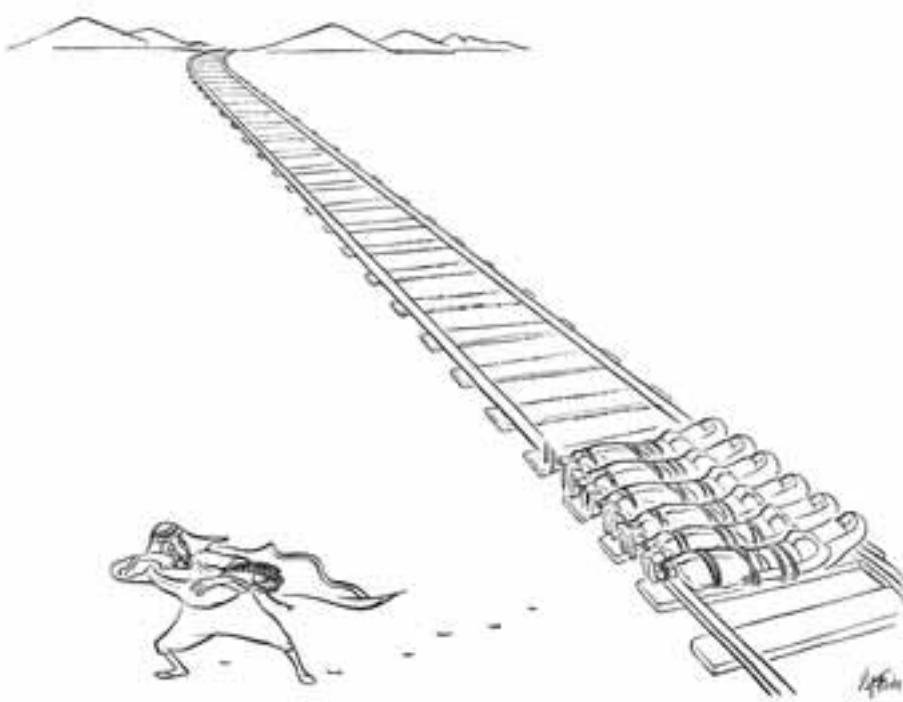

“Oh, guide! Guide! Where are you, guide?”

"If we get separated, I'll meet you in 'Under Five Dollars.' "

"Busoni, we're taking you for a long, long ride."

"What burns me up, I pay taxes to the Aga Khan, he gives it to Aly, Aly gives it to Rita, Rita gives it to Dick, and Dick gives it to some woman named Nora Eddington Flynn."

"For heaven's sake, Fullerton, relax and enjoy yourself. What the Rockefeller Foundation doesn't know won't hurt them."

"... yes, sir, folks ... and furthermore, folks ... for real quality, folks ... yes, sir, folks ..."

"Oh—not chop suey again!!"

"Any discount to the trade?"

"Well, my intuition tells me he's not guilty!"

"Honest, lady—I wish you'd just forget it."

"How do you expect to support a wife if you can't even afford a guitar?"

"I don't know what to get Harry. He has everything he needs."

"Now that you're one of us, Miss Talmage, may I be the first to ask what you're doing for dinner tonight?"

"Well then, how about a merry marital mixup?"

“That ‘gay camaraderie before a roaring fire’ better be good.”

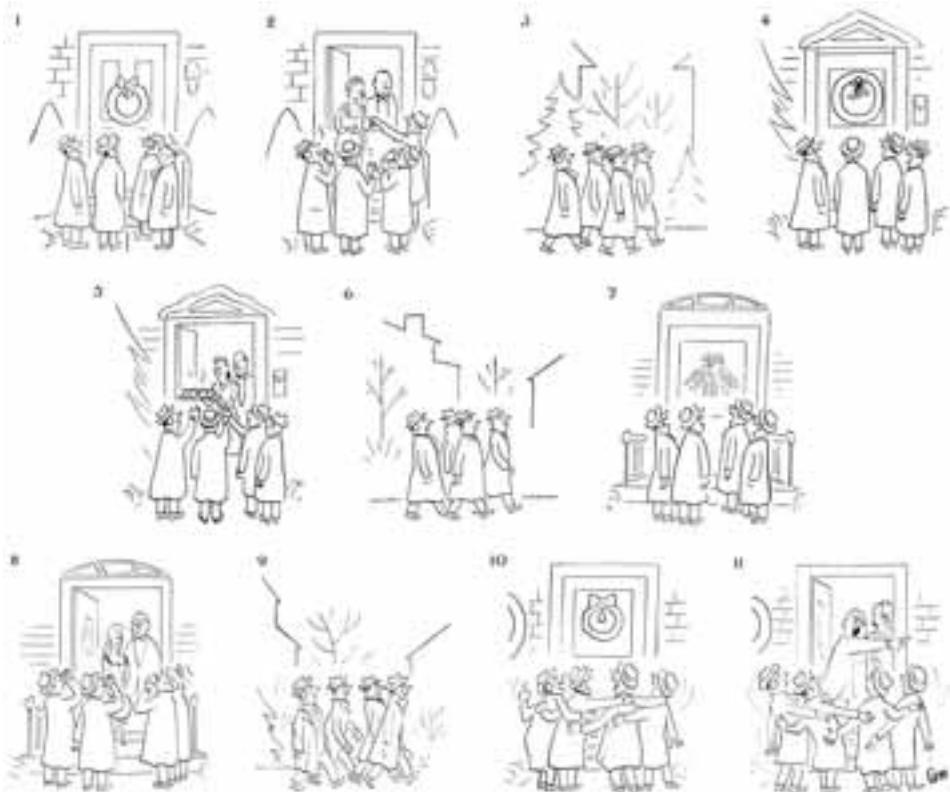

"Well, say something!!"

"I just can't wait to see your work, old fellow."

"Don't you agree, Verna, that everyone is put here on earth for some special purpose?"

"You're fired!"

"Now, for heaven's sake, don't stop for a drink at the sideboard, and give yourself away."

"Son, this car has features you've never even heard of."
